

Workshop

La Ligne Ouverte

Creation, programming and adventure ... without screen!

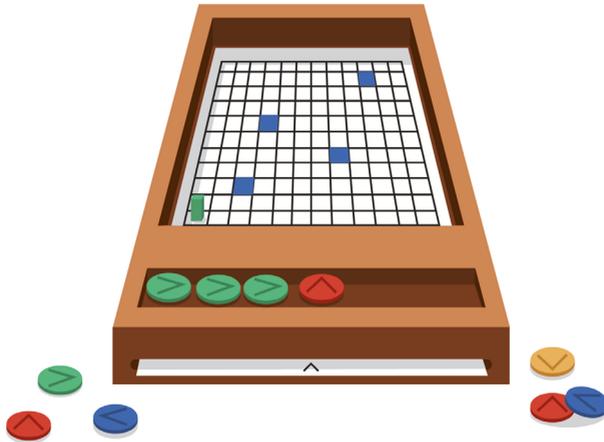

Workshop from 4-7 years old

Teaching computer programming to children ... without a screen. If digital technology is revolutionizing our lives and our uses, it is necessary to understand its codes from a very young age.

This workshop teaches children from 4 years old to understand the mechanisms of computer programming: functions, loops and variables. The principle of this workshop is inspired by the LOGO language learning methods and constructions of Primo Toys to allow the child to learn digital from wooden toys, stories and illustrations specially designed for this purpose.

The objective is to discover computer logic without a screen and by developing the children's creativity through adventures and characters that they can customize.

La Ligne Ouverte

Who are we?

La Ligne Ouverte (the open line) is a production and distribution structure for international contemporary artists whose work questions the digital world and its implications.

Founded in 2019 by Shabnam Rahimian (director and exhibition curator) and Antonin Jousse (president, academic researcher and artist). Our mission is to develop collaborations between artists from different countries and cultures and to foster encounters with different audiences in multiple venues.

Our second mission is to promote access to art, culture and digital knowledge through mediation and pedagogy among local populations.

C'est dans ce cadre que nous développons ces ateliers de création artistique et de pratique du numérique. Il est primordial de former les plus jeunes à ces compétences et ces enjeux. Nous réalisons également ces ateliers à échelle internationale.
